SPOT-CASH CLOTHING

The People Like It—So Our Great Sale Goes On.

Somebody said we were going out of business at once. That isn't true.

Somebody said we were connected with another Bangor clothing house. That isn't true.

We are still doing business "on the bridge" and personally conducting one of the most successful spot-cash clothing sales ever held in Bangor. Early sales were very large, but the number has been more than doubled during the last few weeks. And who wonders at it with such values as these:

SUITS: $3.98, $4.85, $5.85, $6.35, $7.85.

OVERCOATS: $3.35, $3.48, $4.93, $4.98.

ULSTERS: $3.49 to $11.83.

Reefers, Trousers, Vests, Abbott Doxter Woolen Pants, McMillen Pants, Sweaters, Underwear, at close-to-half prices.

An Auburn man says that [illegible] years old had took down the [illegible] family musket one day recently and [illegible] went out back of the house. He saw a large 200 pound buck and blazed away. The deer dropped in his tracks but the [illegible] boy was so frightened that he ran to the house and very romantically fainted away.

Musical Notes.

Miss Harriet Shaw, the harpist, has returned from France to Boston, where her mother has gone to [illegible] her.

Rehearsals have commenced on the comic opera, "Cophetua," which is to be produced at Bath in December by talent local to that city for the benefit of the free kindergarten. Mr. Harry McLellan, of Bath, who successfully conducted, in former years, the Bath production of "The Mikado," "Chimes of Normandy," and "Patience," is the composer of the music and director for the presentation of the opera. The chorus will comprise forty voices.

Mme Calve has arrived in Paris and has gone actively to work on the rehearsals for Massenet's new opera, "Sapho," at the Opera Comique, where she is to create the title role before long.

H. A. Barnet's next Cadet production to be put on at the Tremont Theatre, Boston, Feb. 7, is to be called "Queen of the Ballet," and not "The Danseuse," as was at first announced.

Portland Argus: Public sentiment has nearly sounded the "death knell" in Maine of the reprehensible "side hunt" or "shooting match" in which great live men band together for the extermination of every thing in the woods from a chipmunk and woodpecker to a bull moose. Still one of these organized butcheries is reported now and then from some community that ought to know better. South Norridgewock, we observed, has one on the programme for next week. But the leaven is working and there isn't one of these matches now where there were ten a dozen years ago. No true sportsman or no humane man, if he stopped to think, would participate in an affair of this kind.

The Bates college students are all carried away with golf. There is a large club organized at the college and it is not an uncommon sight to see a knot of fellows earnestly talking and suddenly have a golf ball hit one in the side of the head. The fellow will look around with fight on his countenance only to see that it was some handsome young lady who drove the ball. This always acts as a panacea. Miss Hayes, '00, holds the best record for ladies with a score of 41, and Conant, '98, for the men. His record is 37.

Two Maine men are among the editors of the New York Sun who will continue to fill their positions under the new management. They are E. T. Mitchell, a native of Bath, and Mayo W. Hazeltine, a native of Belfast. Both are editorial writers.

HENRY GEORGE, JR.

Takes His Father's Place as Standard Bearer.

No Stampede to Low, as Plotted by the Citizens' Union.

Death of George Will Not Injure the Chances of Gen. Tracy.

Stinging Utterances of Mr. Platt on the Low Methods.

New York, Oct. 29. The Henry George campaign committee was in session over three hours this afternoon. Representatives of the various organizations supporting George made speeches as to what course to pursue. Some favored endorsing Low. Charles Stewart Smith and Joseph LaRocque, of the Citizens' Union, were present for the purpose of urging the endorsing of Low.

At that juncture, however, a telegram came from Allen W. Thurman urging the nomination of Henry George, Jr. This suggestion was adopted unanimously and enthusiastically. Tom L. Johnson was appointed a committee to see whether the son would accept. Henry George, Jr., was seen almost immediately and he accepted.

Dr. McGlynn Overcome With Grief.

New York, Oct. 29. Dr. McGlynn reached the Union Square Hotel shortly before 11 o'clock. The despatch which summoned him merely announced that a "dear friend" was dead. But bearing in mind his own premonitions and the premonitions that Henry George had confided to him he concluded rightly that his great associate in the single tax battle of other years had expired. He took the first train from Newburg and, arriving at the depot, was met in the corridor by Henry George, Jr. When he was taken into the room where his friend lay dead he burst into tears. The scene was a distressing one. Afterwards he said: "Henry George died as Abraham Lincoln died. Lincoln was assassinated just after his great work of saving the union was consummated.

"It was said that he was mercifully spared the petty annoyances and bickerings of the reconstruction period. Henry George was struck down by fate in the zenith of his powers, but the great work that he inaugurated will go on.

"As a man, as a philosopher, it will be long before his like will be seen again. His goodness and gentleness singled him out among all men and, with others, I almost worshipped him."

When Dr. McGlynn was able to think calmly over his recent intercourse with the dead man, he recalled that his friend had frequently expressed to him his premonition that his end was approaching and had used language that he now saw indicated a presentiment that he would not outlive his campaign.

Senator Hanna Says a Kind Word.

Cincinnati, Oct. 29. Senator Hanna, before leaving for Cleveland, was advised of the death of Henry George. The Senator said:

"It is a shock to the country. Henry George was an honest man, a man of conviction. But as far as his usefulness was concerned, it was neutralized by his one idea. Had he been broader in his views he would have been a great benefactor of his country. But he was no demagogue. George was winning many votes from Tammany."

Judge Van Wyck's Expression.

New York, Oct. 29. Justice Van Wyck, Tammany candidate for mayor, did not arrive at his chambers in City Court until late this afternoon.

Regarding the death of Henry George he said: "On this lamentable occasion my heart is turned to the widow and the children, and no thought is given to the political effect."

Justice Van Wyck this afternoon ordered the flag flying over his headquarters at the Hotel Bartholdi lowered to half mast out of respect to the memory of Henry George.

W. J. Bryan's Eulogy.

Logan, Ohio, Oct. 28. "I have just received a dispatch announcing the death of Henry George. The suddenness with which the summons came makes more keen the sorrow which the public generally will feel at the death of so great, so pure, and so brave a man. By his own unaided genius he made his name familiar to the reading public of the world around. Those who agree with his theories found him an ideal leader, while those opposed to him admitted his ability and moral courage. He was one of the foremost thinkers of the world. His death will prove a loss to literature, society and politics."

(Signed) "W. J. Bryan."

Interview on Political Situation with Mr. Platt.

New York, Oct. 29. In a statement Senator Platt says:

"Unless the Jeffersonian Democrats are betrayed by Tom Johnson, who had been their hoodoo from the start, their votes will be readily consolidated upon the other candidates. The disreputable deal between Johnson and the Citizens' Union has further responsibilities as far as Johnson is concerned. They are not deliverable in bulk to anybody except to another bona fide candidate of the party.

"Gen. Tracy will not lose a single Republican vote as the result of Mr. George's death. The Republican party will poll its strength with substantial entirety for Gen. Tracy and nothing could affect the fact.

"Republicans recognize the Low movement as a Democratic conspiracy. They see in Low an attempt to revive Clevelandism and to betray the Republican party by another of those characteristic tricks of the Cleveland Democracy. It is an old and well understood thing. In every political crisis during the last 13 years the Cleveland Democracy has undertaken to divide the Republican forces by withdrawing from the Republican candidate the support of Republican voters upon a dishonest pretence of reform. In the existing situation Low stands for Cleveland and for the Cleveland methods and manoeuvres.

"But Republicans understand the game. They remember its consequences to the public and to the Republican party in former periods. Attempts to stampede them now excite only their indignant disgust. They will support their party's principles and their party's unconquerable candidate. If the George party breaks up, the socialist Democratic element may be carried by Johnson and Low. Low is something of a socialist himself, or rather he is so much of a demagogue that, as he says, he is willing to stand on any platform that will fetch him a handful of votes. This will affect Gen. Tracy's chances, if at all, as far as it affects them at all, favorably.

"That is to say, it deflects to Low another little bunch of Democratic votes that otherwise might go to Tammany. But the bulk of the genuine labor vote that was attached to George will come to the Republican party. Indeed, even if George had lived, an enormous labor support was coming to Tracy. In the present condition it will come with increased numbers and increased activity and earnestly. The working people appreciate what the Republican party has done for them, not only at Washington, by restoring prosperity, but at Albany by protecting them and encouraging the development of their organization. Tammany cannot get this vote. It has become estranged from Tammany and in this election it is supporting Tracy and will now support him more vigorously than ever.

"Of all the candidates in the field the Republican candidate has much the best of it."

It Did Cost Mr. George His Life.

New York, Oct. 29. Henry George, the author of "Progress and Poverty," and the candidate for Mayor of Greater New York of the Democracy of Thomas Jefferson, died of apoplexy at 4 30 a. m. today.

In accepting the nomination at the Cooper Union meeting Mr. George said: "I will make this race if it costs me my life. This is a call to duty and as a good citizen I have no right to disregard it on account of mere personal consideration."

The courageous utterance were loudly applauded.

Today the cheers of the workers have been changed to tears, for, true to his word, Henry George died as he wished to die, in the harness.

The man of large brain and courage was physically frail, and the strain of an exciting campaign requiring speechmaking at points many miles apart, night after night, was more than nature could stand. He kept it up to the end, and only a few hours before he died had addressed enthusiastic audiences in three towns.

Mr. George was up early and did not retire until late at night. During the three weeks he had been on the stump of the five boroughs comprising the greater city, he had delivered no less than thirty speeches in favor of good government, and denunciatory of Messrs. Croker and Platt. He went so far in his utterances as to threaten to make an effort to send the Tammany and Republican leaders to prison in the event of his election. Now this threat is seemingly forgotten for among the first to send his condolence to the widow was Richard Croker.

Gen. Tracy, Robert Van Wyck and Seth Low, the rival candidates, have all expressed their sorrow.

Concerning the last few hours of Mr. George's life, there is but little to say. He returned to the Union Square hotel at midnight on Thursday. Then he lunched with his wife and at 1 a. m. retired. At 3 o'clock his wife awakened to find her husband seated in a chair.

"I am not feeling quite comfortable," he remarked.

"Won't you go back to bed?" said his wife.

"I will sit here awhile," said Mr. George.

He grew weaker and weaker and finally became unconscious.

Tom L. Johnson, of Ohio, and G. Frank Stevens, of Philadelphia, his managers, were informed, and Dr. James E. Kelley and the family sent for.

When they arrived they found that Mr. George was dead.

When the sad news spread beyond Union square at first no one believed it to be true, but the verification soon came. Politicians stopped to discuss the consequences of the change in the campaign.

The other leaders of the Jefferson Democracy were staggered by the unexpected blow, and at first some were inclined to throw the strength of the organization in favor of Low.

At a meeting of the campaign committee it was decided as Henry George's name would appear on the official ballot on election day, to nominate Henry George, Jr. The young man was said by ex-Congressman Johnson to be a chip of the old block and as old as Bryan when nominated for President.

Then this manifesto was issued:

A George Manifesto.

"To the voters of New York: Henry George, dead, shall yet speak to you. The immutable principles for which he stood, and to the defence of which he gave his life, shall yet be upheld by those who hold their duty even more clear, more solemn, more sacred than it was before the inscrutable decree of Providence put a seal forever on his lips.

"It is more the duty of this committee today to represent to the great body of the American people who cling to the principles advocated by Henry George than to express the sorrow of the members in the face of this unutterable calamity. It is part of the lieutenants when the captain falls to press the attack on the enemy's works and before us still there stand the breastworks manned by the foes of Jeffersonian Democracy. In the face of sorrow we call upon your courage. Though our leader be fallen we promise you there will be no weakening in the attack.

"To Democrats, we say, join in the renewed effort to force the Democratic organization of New York to be Democratic. To voters of every partisan sort we say, proceed bravely and faithfully along the Democratic path which Henry George described for your guidance, and the ends which he most sought may yet be achieved. We offer you a candidate, and we promise you organized effort and enthusiastic service.

"We declare that the Henry George living today stands for all that the Henry George of yesterday, now passed from earth, stood for.

"He is pure in character, strong in intellect, great in ability and unflinching in courage. He is a Jeffersonian Democrat whose faith is as broad as that of the great leader to whose place he has been assigned. He trusts the people and believes the people will trust him and elect him.

"Again we appeal to the Democracy of New York, to the believers in the immortal principles of Jefferson for which Henry George lived and died, to stand by their principles. The standard raised by Henry George must not be lowered. The fight must go on! Henry George must be elected mayor of New York."

Arrangements for Funeral.

The committee in charge of the funeral have arranged that from sunrise on Sunday, Oct. 31, until sunset the remains will lie in state in the Grand Central Palace, on Lexington avenue and 43rd street, this city. At 3 the funeral services and orations will take place. The funeral will start from the palace at 7 o'clock and proceed via the Brooklyn bridge to the Brooklyn city hall. In this formal procession every friend and admirer is invited to join. Mr. George was an Episcopalian, but not very regular in attendance at church. His widow is a Catholic.

Sketch of Henry George, Jr.

New York, Oct. 29. Henry George, Jr., was born in Sacramento, Cal., in 1862. He was early taken from school and put to work in a printing office to set type for "Progress and Poverty." He came east with his father in 1880. In 1883 he went to England as his father's private secretary. After his return he was employed some time on the editorial staff of Truth, a daily paper published in this city. Afterward he was assistant to James Redpath, when the latter became editor of the North American Review.

When the Standard was founded by his father as the exponent of single tax, he was managing editor until 1891. Then he went to Washington as special correspondent of a number of western papers. In 1893 he spent six months in England as correspondent for several prominent American dailies. Afterward he became managing editor of the Jacksonville, Fla., Daily Citizen and later secretary to his father.

The Political Situation.

New York, Oct. 29. The practical politicians are all said to agree that the remarkable Democracy of Thomas Jefferson, built up by Henry George in three weeks, will not be a principal factor in next Tuesday's election. It had been generally estimated that he would have polled more than 100,000 votes if he had survived the campaign, but these votes are probably not transferable.

Young George has little of his father's ability as a campaigner and organizer and is not well known. The Tammany leaders have regained their confidence that was shaken by Henry George's extraordinary canvass during the past week. They have called in their anti-George literature, silenced their anti-George speakers, are mourning publicly for George as a good man and a Democrat, and hope to get the greater part of his vote.

Low will probably get a considerable proportion, a few thousand votes will probably stick to young George, and as the Tracy leaders here said all along that there were no straight Republicans in the George ranks, they probably expect nothing.

Stock Exchange Bets Off.

Nearly all the bets on the general results of Tuesday's election made between members of the stock exchange were declared off today on account of the death of Henry George. The bets on the position of Low and Tracy remain in most cases, the Low backers declining to call them off.

A committee of stock brokers will probably be appointed to arbitrate the exchange bets and the decision may be accepted generally.

Offers of 2 to 1 on Van Wyck were made on the stock exchange in the afternoon with but few takers. The odds against Low's election were 2½ to 1.

COL. JOHN M. ADAMS DEAD.

A Great Loss to the State and Newspaper World

Portland, Me., Oct. 29. Col. John M. Adams, editor and publisher of the Argus, who has been ill for some time at his home in Deering, passed away early this evening. Col. Adams was one of the oldest newspaper publishers in New England, had been one of the most influential men in Maine and was universally esteemed. He was born in Rumford, Oxford county, this State, Sept. 22, 1819, and was therefore over 78 years of age. His American ancestor was Wm. Adams, who arrived in Cambridge, Mass., in 1635. In his youth the deceased was obliged to rely pretty much on his own resources, being one of five children of a widowed mother. He acquired a good education, which was completed at St. Hyacinthe, Canada, paying his way by teaching school.

After graduation he came to Portland and began the study of law and was admitted to the Cumberland bar in 1846. He met with encouraging success in the law, having been in partnership with the late Hon. John A. Poor, as well as with the late Nathan Clifford, the latter association continuing up to the time Mr. Clifford was appointed a justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. Having contributed occasional articles to the Argus Mr. Adams formed a liking for such work and in 1857 became editor of the paper and a few years later was its sole proprietor. Mr. Adams has always been an earnest friend of education and had served as county superintendent of schools.

He was a member of Gov. Hubbard's staff; was appointed reporter of judicial decisions by Gov. Wells; was a member of the legislature in 1877-78, the latter year receiving the unanimous vote of his party for speaker of the house, and was appointed by President Cleveland visitor to the West Point military academy. On account of his business engagements he felt compelled to decline becoming a candidate for Congress and for Governor, both of which honors his Democratic friends had urged him to accept.

Mr. Adams has always held the respect and esteem of his political opponents as well as his party associates. He is survived by a widow and four children. The funeral will take place Monday afternoon.

The Stock Market.

New York, October 29. The stock market was pathetic and almost stagnant today, brokers and operators apparently being taken up with politics, and the complications precipitated into the approaching local contest by the day's events. The recent and continuing strength of the wheat market has also tended to divert some share of speculative activity into that channel. Though trading was restricted in volume the market was quite strong throughout and only once during the day did prices sag a shade below last night's level. Sugar gave some evidences of weakness and it was a decline of nearly two points in this specialty which weakened the general list.

Consolidated Gas was also weak and lost two points on the day. Otherwise there was no stock which manifested special weakness and sugar recovered before the close. The grangers were strong, Omaha and the grangers with a net gain of over a point. The coalers recovered during the day all the losses which they suffered yesterday, their net gains running between one and two points and in the case of Lackawanna extending to 3 points. Union Pacific rallied somewhat from its recent losses. The exchange market held about steady at the recent decline and the money market continued easy though with lenders inclined to hold back pending the completion of the arrangements for the payment of the government's claim on Union Pacific and of its return obligations on maturing bonds.

The total sales today of all stocks were only about 175,000 shares. Sugar, Burlington, St. Paul and Union Pacific absorbed considerably over half of this total.

The feature of the bond market was the sharp decline in Kansas Pacific consols, which sold at 80, a decline of 3½. The Union Pacific 6s of 96 trust receipts also lost 2½ per cent. Total sales $1,615,000. U. S. new 4s coupon were advanced ½ bid.

Fowler Popular as a Target.

Portland, Me., Oct. 29. Constable Fowler, night watchman at South Portland, while on his boat Thursday night, was shot at by some unknown party. The bullet passed in front of him, and imbedded itself in a building. This is the second time within a month that Fowler has been shot at.

FEARED SHE IS LOST.

The Brig Henry B. Cleaves Now Long Overdue.

A Maine Vessel in Which Great Anxiety is Felt by Owners.

Believed That She Went Down in One of the Furious Hurricanes.

Boston, Oct. 29. Brig Henry B. Cleaves, which cleared and sailed from Boston for Cape Verde Islands on August 26, is now 64 days out, when the usual passage is about 28 days. Her owners feel that she has been lost.

William Nelson is master, and the brig sailed from this port August 23.

This vessel was sent out by D. D. Hall & Co., of Boston, and carried an uncommonly valuable cargo, including flour and general merchandise. The Cleaves is now out 64 days, while the voyage is usually made in 28 and rarely exceeds 35 days. Cable advices received today state that no news has been received of the vessel and the owners have given her up as lost. It is feared that she encountered some of the gales that prevailed in the Atlantic in September.

The brig Henry B. Cleaves was built at Bath, Me., in 1874, and has a gross tonnage of 380. She hails from Portland. At the office of the U. S. shipping commissioner it was learned that the crew of the Henry B. Cleaves consisted of seven men beside the captain. The names of the men are as follows: F. A. Smith, of New Brunswick, first mate; A. L. Warner, second mate; W. W. Dore, steward, and seamen A. Mason, E. C. Finley, Fred Cotter and W. A. Holder. The Cleaves on her previous trip to Cape Verde Islands took only 28 days.

There is a remote possibility that if disaster overtook her, the crew might have been taken off by a vessel on a long voyage so that it would be months before word of her would be received. The vessel was formerly owned by H. M. Sargent, of Portland, but was recently bought in part by Capt. Nelson, who had no insurance. Other people having shares in her have insurance. The vessel and cargo were valued at $20,000.

Review of Trade.

New York, Oct. 29. R. G. Dun & Co. in their weekly review of trade will say:

The testing of retail trade is in progress but results are remarkably retarded by long continued mild weather and fever in southern districts. Even from that quarter some large orders lately received show better distribution than was expected. In spite of unseasonably warm weather, which greatly hinders retail dealings in winter goods at all points east of the plains, the large number of supplementary orders with urgent pressure for quick delivery make it clear that sales in many branches have exceeded the expectation of dealers, so that replenishment of stocks is not yet finished.

Meanwhile wholesale trade and orders to manufacturers have been smaller than when the rush was greatest, but have nevertheless been large for this stage, even in a year of general prosperity, for the payments through the principal clearing houses have for the week been 3.0 per cent. larger than in the same week of 1892 and for the month 6.1 per cent.

Heavy engagements for outgoing wheat, covering 4,000,000 bushels this week, affect monetary prospects but still more the produce markets for the Atlantic exports are large already, 3,864,440 bushels, flour included, against 2,344,841 for the week last year and in four weeks 13,004,557, against 9,817,058 last year.

Western receipts are not quite equal to last year's for the week, but have been 27,069,283 bushels as for four weeks against 28,664,444 last year. The fall of cotton to 6 cents for spot and 5.88 for January, making the price the lowest for nearly half a century, is partly due to embarrassments caused by the fever, but also indicates the prevailing belief that the quantity to come forward is large. For two months more cotton has come into sight than from the greatest crop ever grown, in spite of delays caused by quarantines, but the unfavorable conditions about the time of maturity render it less likely than usual that the top crop will be satisfactory, so that receipts may drop off earlier than usual.

On the other hand it is to be noted that extensive labor troubles threaten the manufacture in England while the lowest price ever known here for print cloths reflects the heavy accumulated stock of other goods as well as the increase in production by the mills has been over forty per cent. in 10 years, far beyond the increase in population and they consumed almost as much cotton in the last crop year with materially diminished demand for goods as in the most prosperous heretofore.

Wool markets have become quiet. Instead of 13,000,000 pounds reported sold at Boston in the last week of September 9,200,000 the next week, 5,600,000 the second week of October and 3,000,000 the third week, sales have been but 2,710,000 and at the three chief markets 6,231,000, making the aggregate for the month 30,304,000 pounds against over 66,000,000 in September. Prices are said to be well maintained though 2 to 3 cents below former asking price, but occasional heavy sales indicate concessions for liquidation of speculative lots. The market for goods is not active, as prices have been so far advanced as to hinder buying, in many cases intentionally, until the future is more clear, and the mills have ahead quite as large contracts as they just now desire.

The boot and shoe industry is in a similar position, though leather is gradually weakening with buying restricted to immediate needs, but the shops have plenty of orders ahead and are unable now to get spring orders at prices corresponding to those of materials.

Hides at Chicago have slightly advanced with some further large purchases.

The buying of iron and steel products, though smaller than of late, continued to keep works well engaged ahead, and induces others to resume operations.

Tin is a little weaker, and copper at 11 cents for lake, and competition of home producers lower tin plates to $3 10.

Failures for the week have been 210 in the United States, against 270 last year, and 25 in Canada, against 40 last year.

Cabinet Considered Spain's Reply.

Washington, Oct. 29. The cabinet held a brief session today, lasting about an hour. The only matter considered not of a departmental nature was the abstract of the Spanish reply. This abstract brought forth comment upon the mild tone it indicated as contained in the full reply. Nothing will be done until the verbatim text of the note has been received.

Mention was made of the death of Henry George, but no expression of the President was given out.

President Left for Ohio.

Washington, Oct. 29. President and Mrs. McKinley left Washington at 3.40 for Cincinnati for the Ohio trip which has been planned for several days. Secretary Porter accompanied the President. After stopping at Canton and Pittsburg, the party will return to Washington next Thursday.

New Postmaster.

Washington, Oct. 29. C. R. Nickerson has been appointed postmaster at Swanville, Me.

Marriage of Henry George, Jr.

Chicago, Oct. 29. Unless the death of Henry George causes a postponement, Henry George, Jr., and Miss Marie Hitch of Chicago, will be married on next Thanksgiving day. Miss Hitch today received a telegram from Henry George, Jr., notifying her of his father's death. She denied the report that Mr. George had asked for a postponement, and unless her fiance should later make such a request, the ceremony will take place in Chicago on the date originally agreed upon.

FROM IMPURE WATER.

A Severe Epidemic in Brunswick Due to That Cause.

Contaminated Water From the Androscoggin Turned Into the Pipes.

Water Company Said to Be Responsible for Putting Lives in Jeopardy.

Brunswick, Me., Oct. 29. A severe epidemic of an unknown character, which affects the stomach principally, and causes intense abdominal pains, excessive vomiting and general physical discomfort, has prevailed in town for about ten days. Today it was definitely settled that the water supply was responsible. This supply is ordinarily fairly good, but a short time ago the main was broken where it crosses the river from Bath. Then the water company turned Androscoggin river water into the pipes.

This water was taken just below where two large sewers discharge. Besides, the river is contaminated by the sewerage of Lewiston, Auburn and other river towns. One hundred Bowdoin students are ill, half that number being almost forced to stay at home. Much decaying animal and vegetable matter is found in the river water upon analysis.

The public was not generally informed when the water supply was changed, but it is announced by the company that the good water has been turned on again.

Behring Sea Agreement.

Washington, Oct. 29. Official confirmation was given today to the announcement that the Behring sea conference had reached an agreement for suspension or material limitation of pelagic sealing. Russian and Japanese delegates accept the proposition, reserving only the right to communicate their action to their governments for the purpose of having it approved. This has been done by cable. In the meantime, however, the acceptances stand and the proposition is regarded as an accomplished fact.

The propositions consist of three main features, of an alternative character. The first contemplates absolute suspension of all pelagic sealing. Another is for the restriction of such sealing within very narrow limits. The nature of the third proposition is not disclosed.

The action of the conference in seeking the co-operation of Great Britain, rather than inviting a breach is a special source of gratification among those interested. Canada continues to be the one influence in the way of an immediate and satisfactory agreement, which shall include not only the United States, Russia and Japan, but Great Britain and her colonies. The continued absence of Mr. Macoun, the Canadian delegate, is a source of surprise and no little irritation.

Woman Killed Boy and Herself.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 29. A woman on whose body was found a card bearing the name "Bessie Lagrange, 533 Mumford street," and a boy evidently her son, about 12 years old, were found dead in a room in the Windsor House this afternoon. They arrived at the hotel yesterday and the landlady not hearing from them today at 2.30 became alarmed. An entrance was gained and both were dead and two bottles labelled "Carbolic Acid" were found. It is thought the woman administered the poison to the boy and then took some herself.

They came from Schenectady.

Half Witted Ghoul.

Portland, Me., Oct. 29. Joseph W. Rounds, a half witted youth aged about 18 years, was arrested at Kennebunk today for robbing the grave of Mrs. Roberts at Westbrook a short time since. He made a confession, saying he had been troubled by ghosts, who told him if he would dig up a dead body they would stop haunting him. Rounds was committed to jail for a hearing the first of next week.

Foot Ball.

At Lewiston, Me., Oct. 29. Edward Little High school, 18; Lewiston High school, 0.

Medal for Gen. Sickles.

Washington, Oct. 29. A medal of honor has been presented to Major Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, U. S. A., retired, for most distinguished gallantry while in command of the third army corps at Gettysburg, July 2, 1863.

Trust Fund for Care of Parrot.

Boston, Oct. 29. By the will of Mary J. Bradford, filed in the probate court for Suffolk county, is created a trust fund of $4,000, the income to be used for the care and support of a parrot owned by the testator. The bird is not to be put in any public place or store on exhibition. The court has appointed George H. Pierce as trustee to carry out the wishes.

Lavigne Defeated Walcott.

San Francisco, Oct. 29. While this evening's pugilistic programme was late in opening, the preliminary bouts between local boxers at Mechanics pavilion were curtailed and at 9.50 Joe Walcott stepped into the ring. He was warmly applauded, but it was discounted by the roar of applause which greeted Geo. Lavigne as he followed the colored man.

Lavigne won in the 12th round.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

Ex-President Cleveland received the following message from Queen Victoria yesterday: "Felicitations on this the day of your happiness, and may your heir bring you joy. Victoria."

Fire broke out this morning at 1:30 in the Van Storch mine at Scranton, Pa. It is not known whether any men are imprisoned.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Liver and Kidney Troubles and Palpitation of the Heart—Appetite Poor and Could Not Sleep.

"For nearly 10 years I have been troubled with my liver and kidneys and palpitation of the heart, and was under the doctor's care most of the time. I could not lie on my left side. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep. In January the grip confined me to the house. I was very low and was attended by the very best physicians I could get. It seemed as though nothing would help me. In March I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. In less than a week I could get a good night's sleep. I continued taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and I am now able to lie on my left side which I had not been able to do for years. My appetite is good and I have gained in flesh and strength." MRS. Elections Next Week.

On Tuesday of next week nine State elections occur of more or less importance. In these contests public interest is largely confined to the results in Ohio and Maryland and in the Mayoralty election in Greater New York. The State elections may be summarized as follows: Iowa, a full State ticket and a Legislature; Kentucky, a clerk of the Court of Appeals; Maryland, a Comptroller, a clerk of the Court of Appeals and a Legislature, which will elect Senator Gorman's successor; Massachusetts, a full State ticket and a Legislature; Nebraska, a Judge of the Supreme Court and a registrar of the State University; New York, a Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals; Ohio, a full State ticket and a Legislature, which will elect Senator Hanna's successor; Pennsylvania, an auditor and a State Treasurer; Virginia, a Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General and a Legislature.

In Maryland the fate of Gorman is the balance and the Republicans feel quite confident of success. In Iowa there are six distinct tickets in the field, but the Republican candidate on a protection and sound money platform has been making a vigorous canvass and his election by a decisive majority is predicted. In Ohio there are four tickets and the anti-Administration forces have made this State their chief point of attack. General Charles H. Grosvenor whose election estimates attracted so much attention last fall because of their accuracy, sums up the situation in Ohio as follows:

"My estimate is that not over 750,000 votes will be polled this year; 800,000 would not surprise me, but somewhere along that line will be found the aggregate vote. Instead of 10,807 being the aggregate of the votes cast for candidates for Governor other than Bushnell and Chapman, it is calculated that there will be 50,000 votes polled. There may be more and there may be less, but of that aggregate, whatever it may be, five out of six of them will come from the vote given Bryan last year. The Populists last year, with their 50,000 voters went bodily into the Democratic party. I do not estimate that 100 of them voted for McKinley. Coxey's vote this year will be subtracted from the Bryan vote of last year. The Prohibition vote I do not think will largely increase, but it is probable that both the candidates for Governor, if they have secured places on the ticket, will have an aggregate of 20,000 votes.

These votes will come largely from the Bryan vote; I would say 15,000 votes, not so large in number as in the case of the Coxey vote, but still a very large proportion. This will leave Governor Bushnell with so much of the vote as went to McKinley and which will now go into the election substantially intact. Mr. Chapman will have the Bryan vote, so far as it goes to the election, minus the Populist vote and the Prohibition vote of last fall. These defections will leave him 100,000 short of the Bushnell vote, if the vote is as large as it was last year, and his minority will be based upon the ratio here indicated. Whatever he can gain by the side shows he will lose four times over by the men who last fall voted for Bryan, who will not vote for Chapman. These are the outlines of the elements moving in this campaign.

"They are not ascertainable in figures, because no man can tell how far the increased interest incident to the closing days of the campaign will result in swelling the aggregate vote; but Governor Bushnell will not only be elected, but he will have a splendid and sweeping majority over all the candidates in the field."

As to the Legislature, General Grosvenor's claims are as follows: Senate, 23 Republicans, 13 Democrats; House, 74 Republicans, 35 Democrats; or a total on joint ballot of 97 Republicans and 48 Democrats. After rehearsing the reasons on which he bases his predictions, General Grosvenor says:

"Carefully examining the vote of last year for President, and basing it upon the Republican Representatives and Senators of the present schedule, we would have elected last year 26 Republicans to the Senate and 10 Democrats, and to the House 76 Republicans and 33 Democrats, a total of 43 Democrats and 102 Republicans, giving a Republican majority on joint ballot of 59, while I claim that, by reason of the numerous tickets in the field our majority on joint ballot this year will be 49."

Death of Henry George.

The brief despatch that flashed over the wires Friday morning announcing the sudden death of Henry George, the candidate of the Jeffersonian Democracy for Mayor of New York, was a sad reminder of the uncertainty of life. Mr. George was in the midst of a most spirited canvass and the people were still talking of his scathing arraignment of Croker and speculating on the effect of his candidacy on the Tammany vote when the bulletin boards everywhere conveyed the information of his sudden death from apoplexy. He attended several meetings Thursday night and did not return to his hotel until past midnight. At about half-past three he complained that he was not feeling well and in little more than an hour he was dead. Henry George was the advocate of mistaken and dangerous theories, but withal was an able and honest man.

Just what effect his death will have upon the Mayoralty canvass is a matter of conjecture. A strong effort is being made to turn his followers to Low, but the despatches announce that the Jeffersonian Democracy has nominated his son, Henry George, Jr. Provision is made in the ballot law for filling vacancies caused by death and in cases where the official ballot has been printed stickers may be used. The George men were very bitter against Tammany, but now that their leader is gone it is claimed that a considerable portion of the vote is liable to go to Van Wyck. If the voters show the same loyalty to the son that they have felt for the father and stand by their ticket the contest will, of course, go on as it started. As the case stands now no man can tell what the outcome will be.

John M. Adams.

Although not unexpected the news of the death of Col. John M. Adams, the venerable editor of the Portland Argus, will be read with feelings of deep sorrow all over the State. Col. Adams was an intense partisan and ever championed the cause of Democracy with an earnestness that took no note of the extremes to which it might at times lead him, dealing sledge hammer blows regardless of how they fell so long as they were aimed at political opponents in the heat of battle, but at the same time he was one of the most genial of gentlemen, possessing a charm of manner that won for him the sincere friendship of men of all parties. This was particularly true of him in his relations with the fraternity. There is not a newspaper man in Maine who will not cheerfully bear testimony to this fact. With the younger men of the profession Col. Adams' kindly greeting and words of encouragement were most helpful. In business matters he was as true as steel and in the long relations existing between THE WHIG and the Argus during the life of the Maine Associated Press we always found him a most earnest and valuable co-worker. Political differences were confined to the editorial room, and no memories connected with upbuilding and maintenance of the Maine Associated Press will be more lasting than our pleasant associations with the distinguished Editor of the Argus.

To the family of the deceased and to our Portland contemporary THE WHIG tenders its sincere sympathy in the great loss that has come to them.

ARE THEY TO BE REACHED

Through It Alone Can the Air Passages of the Head, Throat and Lungs be Healed.

"HYOMEI," NATURE'S OWN REMEDY

For Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Asthma, Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis.

Has Cured More People of Those Diseases within a Month than All Other Methods Combined During the Year.

It is now admitted by the medical profession that Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma and diseases of the air passages can not be cured by the old methods. The reason for this is made plain to any intelligent person who will give it moment's thought. The air passages were never intended for the use of liquids, sprays, douches and atomizers, for no matter how potent they might be in medicinal value, nature at once expels them, and they never reach the parts affected; furthermore, the attempt to cure Catarrh and Bronchitis by treating them once or twice each week is as absurd as trying to extinguish a dangerous fire by the same method. The bacilli of these diseases grow and multiply by the thousands in a few hours, and nothing but the frequent application of some powerful germicide will kill them. That such a one has been found in "HYOMEI" the New Australian Dry Air Cure, is attested to by thousands throughout the country who have been cured by its use.

"Hyomei" is nature's own remedy carried to all parts of the head, throat and lungs by the air you breathe. It can be taken at all times and in any place. There is no danger, no risk. Your money is refunded if it fails to cure.

"Hyomei" Inhaler Outfit, $1.00. Extra bottles "Hyomei," 50c. "Hyomei" Balm, a wonderful healer, 25c. Can be obtained of your druggist or BY MAIL. Pamphlets free.

HENRY GEORGE DEAD.

The Standard Bearer of Several Factions of Democracy.

Apoplexy Caused by Overwork in the Campaign Led to End.

Causes New Phase in the Great Political Struggle in New York.

New York, Oct. 29.—Henry George is dead. In the midst of a political campaign, which for strife and bitterness has hardly ever been equalled, the spectre of death has come and has touched with its ruthless hand the man who was called the idol of the plain people. On the very eve of a long looked for climax of human passion, ambitions and party prejudices, the reaper who is no respecter of persons has caused another climax so much greater than the one which is still to come that men of all parties have forgotten their surging passions of election time in silent, wondering grief at this blow which has fallen with such sudden intensity.

Last night the whole territory of Greater New York was a pandemonium of political process. Noisy, shouting throngs crushed in halls and streets to hear the speeches that, for the most part, were full of personality and bitterness; rockets flared and fires burned; men argued and urged, and all signs bore witness that the campaign was at its heat. But when today dawned all was changed.

When the truth became known, when men realized that Henry George was really dead, the whole political aspect was altered. The convulsion which the event caused in the complexion of the political situation was forgotten for the time being, in the genuine grief which was evinced on all sides.

Those who last night bitterly denounced the man who said, "I stand for the real Democracy, the Democracy of Thomas Jefferson," today stood in silent groups and recalled many touching kindly acts in the life of the dead man, which showed his true nature. And when the news which stilled the political storm was flashed around the world, the world mourned; for whether the people of the nations had derided the single tax theory or persecuted its exponent, they joined in the epitaph which came naturally to the lips of all in Greater New York, "An honest man is dead."

Death Came at 4.45 A. M.

New York, Oct. 29.—Henry George, the candidate of the Jeffersonian Democracy for mayor of Greater New York died in the Union Square hotel at 4.45 o'clock this morning. Death is thought to have been due to apoplexy.

Mr. George arrived at the hotel about 1 o'clock this morning. He has just come from several large mass meetings in the boroughs of Queens, Brooklyn and Manhattan. The work of the night seemed to have told on him. He complained of being tired but his friends and relatives who awaited him thought it only the natural fatigue that follows such hard campaign work as Mr. George had been doing.

Not long after reaching the hotel, he retired. It was about 3.30 o'clock when Mrs. George was awakened. She found Mr. George sitting in an arm chair.

"I am not feeling quite comfortable," said the candidate to his wife.

"Won't you go back to bed?" inquired Mrs. George anxiously.

"I will sit here a while," was the answer.

Mrs. George at once grew alarmed as to her husband's condition. Mr. George gradually grew incoherent and lapsed into semi-consciousness. Mrs. George was now thoroughly alarmed and called her son, Henry George, Jr., from an adjoining room. Frank Stevens was also called in.

Mr. George was now unconscious. A call was sent to Dr. Kelly and he came without delay. Mr. George was still unconscious. All efforts to revive him failed. Without sign of recognition to those around him, he passed peacefully away at 4.45 o'clock.

Mrs. George was prostrated and was cared for by the friends of the family at the hotel.

Tom Johnson was immediately sent for and arrived at the hotel at 5.20 o'clock. He announced that a meeting of the George leaders would be held at the Everett House this forenoon to determine upon the course of action.

Frank Stevens, a personal friend of Mr. George and one of his campaign managers, was at the candidate's bedside after the fatal attack came. He said this morning:

"I came in to the Union Square hotel at 1 o'clock this morning and found Mr. and Mrs. George sitting at a table in the dining room with a few friends. Mr. George had just returned from the Central Opera house where he had delivered a speech.

"After a light meal, Mr. George complained of indigestion. He soon retired after bidding us all good night. Mrs. George found him sitting in an arm chair about 3.30 o'clock. Soon after his condition became alarming and she summoned several of us. I went at once for the doctor."

Effect on the Campaign.

C. I. Roskeph, one of the campaign managers, was at the Union Square Hotel early this morning. He said: "The movements of the Jeffersonian Democrats will go on steadily as ever."

At the different political headquarters this morning, there was excitement on all sides. The heavy work of the closing days of the campaign was forgotten. The campaign machinery that had for weeks been grinding political weapons to a keen edge, was stopped. In the death of the candidate, everything else was forgotten.

The scene at the George headquarters this morning was indescribable. Men and women, earnest followers of the candidate, stood about, dejected and melancholy. Some of the old men were weeping and a number of women who had called were sobbing bitterly. Tom Johnson arrived at the headquarters early. He said that the shock was terrible. He declared that he could hardly realize it, it was so sudden. He said Mr. George had looked to be in splendid health all during the campaign.

Later Mr. Johnson made the announcement, that the votes of the George supporters would probably go to Low. He said that he, of course, had not much, if anything, to say about asking the supporters of Mr. George to cast their ballots for Mr. Low, but he felt that it would be done in preference to giving up all the vows they had made against bossism.

It was said that the George meetings would go on and that the audiences would be asked to vote for Mr. Low in obedience to the repeated requests and wishes of Mr. George that Mr. Low should get his votes if he could not be elected. It was said that the people who had followed Henry George and who knew him to be an honest and sincere man would still be loyal to him and his wishes.

The executive committee will meet at 3 this afternoon to take action as to whether a successor should be named in Mr. George's place.

It is more than likely that the committee will not come to any conclusion until late this evening.

Chairman Abbott of the campaign committee made the following statement:

"It is my opinion that the committee will not favor the nomination of any other man in Mr. George's place, but prefers that the voters should vote the entire ticket, filling in Mr. Low's name for mayor."

It seems that many of the members of the committee are of the same opinion.

Mr. Tom Johnson, when asked whether he agreed with the views of Chairman Abbott, said:

"My best friend has gone. I have nothing further to say."

At the headquarters of the Citizens' Union both the American flags on the building are displayed at half-mast.

Comments of Richard Croker.

Richard Croker said, of Mr. George's death: "Nothing has given me greater sorrow during my political life than the death of Henry George. I believe he has been a failing man for some time and I am sorry his friends permitted him to go into this canvass.

"His family has my most earnest sympathy. I never met Henry George and did not know him even by sight.

"Please say for me that I am sorry from the bottom of my heart."

Mr. Croker later on declined to express an opinion as to what would be the effect politically of Mr. George's death.

The announcement of the sudden death of Henry George occasioned much surprise among the politicians of Long Island City. Patrick Jerome Gleason, a candidate for mayor of Greater New York, was shocked when he heard of the news.

Gen. Tracy's Comments.

Gen. Benj. F. Tracy, Republican candidate for mayor said:

"I regret exceedingly this unfortunate affair. I have had the highest respect for Mr. George's philosophy."

Mr. Low's Comments.

Mr. Low, candidate for mayor of Greater New York on the Citizens' Union ticket, regarding Henry George's death said:

"The sudden death of Mr. George under the stress of the campaign is a great tragedy. No soldier on the battlefield ever gave his life for his country more evidently than Mr. George has laid down his life in behalf of the city of New York.

"Pure in motive, high minded, absolutely devoted to the services of his fellow men as he thought they could best be served, he had fallen in the thick of the battling against the tyranny and corruption of one man power controlling political machines and thus depriving the people at once of their rights as [illegible] and of control of the government of the city in the public interests.

"I would like to avail of this opportunity to express to the family of Mr. George my sincere sympathy in their irreparable loss."

Messages of Sympathy.

New York, Oct. 29.—Richard Croker and John C. Sheehan sent by special messenger to Mrs. Henry George the following letters of condolence:

To Mrs. Henry George:

"Allow me to express my deep sympathy for you in your great [illegible].

"Richard Croker."

Mrs. Henry George:

"I deeply sympathize with you and your family in the great loss you have sustained.

"John C. Sheehan."

The following telegram was sent by Robert A. Van Wyck, Tammany candidate for mayor, to Mrs. Henry George, Union Square Hotel, New York:

"I am inexpressibly [illegible]. No words can express my regret or my sympathy.

(Signed) "Robert A. Van Wyck."

Comments of the Press.

The Evening Post [illegible] editorially: "Mr. George's [illegible] before the close of the canvass [illegible] tragic interest to a contest [illegible] already had moved the community [illegible] very unusual degree. The [illegible] form of his death [illegible] gretted as far as he is concerned [illegible] had nothing to look forward to [illegible] all but certain that he could not have been elected. His [illegible] in his stern and [illegible] of Platt and Croker [illegible] punished.

"We believe every word [illegible] canvass will, now that [illegible] bound to the advantage of Mr. [illegible]"

The Evening Journal says: "The sudden death of Henry George [illegible] from the mayoralty contest [illegible] most conspicuous public [illegible] has ever known. [illegible] life, honest and brave it [illegible] and true to every purpose. [illegible] has ever commanded the [illegible] fidence of all men [illegible] labor wielded immense power [illegible] is regretted by all classes."

The Mail and Express [illegible] "Henry George is dead. But [illegible] ciples for which he fought [illegible] will live until [illegible] only man in the field who [illegible] that for which Henry [illegible] life is Seth Low."

Want Him to Advocate Low.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Efforts [illegible] made by the friends of Henry George in Chicago to get his son [illegible] ture, to issue an address [illegible] urge all the supporters of [illegible] in the New York mayoralty [illegible] use their influence in behalf of [illegible] the Citizens' Union candidate. [illegible] day Secretary Moore of the [illegible] single tax club, sent Henry [illegible] a telegram urging him to [illegible] course. In the telegram [illegible] ing words of condolence, Mr. Moore [illegible]

"Advocate [illegible] your [illegible] election of Mr. Low. Your [illegible] has been given to break bosses."

Can't Name Another.

New York, Oct. 29.—It is [illegible] conceded that the name of [illegible] W. Dayton cannot under the law [illegible] this late date, be substituted for Henry George as mayoralty candidate.

The Thomas Jefferson [illegible] this afternoon substitute the [illegible] Henry George, Jr., for the [illegible] father, Henry George, as their [illegible] for mayor of Greater New York.

Law Provides for Filling Vacancy

New York, Oct. 29.—Under [illegible] election law the Jeffersonian Democracy may make a new nomination to [illegible] vacancy caused by George's death. [illegible] the election bureau this morning [illegible] said that section 64 of the [illegible] covered the case. Subdivision [illegible] section says:

"If a nomination is duly [illegible] candidate regularly nominated [illegible] fore election day, or is found [illegible] qualified to hold the office for which he is nominated, or if any certificate of nomination is found to be defective [illegible] not wholly void, the committee [illegible] on the case of such certificate [illegible] ination, as permitted by section [illegible] 67 of this act may make a nomination to fill the vacancy so created [illegible] supply said defect as the case may be, making and filing with the proper [illegible] a certificate setting forth the [illegible] the vacancy and the nature of [illegible] the name of the new candidate [illegible] of the office for which he is nominated, the name of the original candidate, the name of the political party or other [illegible] inating body which was inscribed in the original certificate and such further information as is required to be given in an original certificate of nomination, except that where a certificate is filed pursuant to this section to fill a vacancy it shall not be lawful to select a new emblem or device but the emblem on the original certificate shall be used to represent and distinguish the candidate nominated as provided by this section.

"The certificate so made shall be subscribed and acknowledged by a majority of the members of the committee and [illegible] members of the committee subscribing the same shall make oath before the officer or officers before whom they severally acknowledge the execution of such certificate that the matters therein stated are true to the best of their knowledge, information and belief. Except in a case provided for in sub-division two of this section, the said certificate shall be filed in the office in which the original certificate was filed at least six days before election if filed in the office of a town or village clerk, at least fifteen days before the election if filed with the county clerk or the board of police commissioners of the city of New York or the board of elections of Brooklyn. In the case of the death of a candidate after the official ballots have been printed (probably the case [illegible]) it is provided that pasters containing the name of the new candidate shall be furnished."

Statement from Dr. Kelley.

New York, Oct. 29.—Dr. G. D. K[illegible], Mr. George's family physician, received a message at his home 117 East 50[illegible] from Mr. George at 4 o'clock this morning that Mr. George was in a dying condition. He immediately dressed and hastened to the hotel. There he found Mr. George stricken with apoplexy. He was already beyond hope. He could do nothing and the family awaited the end. Mr. George's death was painless. A blood vessel burst in his head, which was the cause of apoplexy.

Dr. Kelly said that he saw Mr. George a few days ago and that he was in a better condition than he was at the opening of the campaign.

When asked as to whether he advised him to enter the canvass, he replied: "I can't say."

He added: "I don't think anyone in Christendom could have prevented Henry George from sacrificing himself to the cause in which he was enlisted and I know him well."

In the death certificate Dr. Kelly said: "I hereby certify that I attended the deceased from Sept., 1881, to Oct., 1897, that I saw him alive on the 29th of October, 1897, at 5 o'clock in the morning, and that to the best of my knowledge and belief the cause of his death is hereunder written:

"Chief cause apoplexy (Cerebral); contribution cause, asphyxia. Duration of disease one half hour."

Dr. Kelly said that Mr. George, as far as he could tell died at about 5 o'clock, no exact time being taken.

Every thoughtful man whether he be an artist or a business man, a mechanic or farmer, feels that he has a certain work to do in this world, and he wants to complete it. A brave man's principal fear of death is because it compels him to leave his life-work unfinished.

He fears sickness for the same reason. He feels that he might as well break his neck and done with, as to have his best working powers hampered and wasted away by disease.

To have the brain dulled and the body enfeebled by impure bile-poisoned blood, is no better than a living death; with all its horrible accompaniments of dyspepsia, nervousness, and melancholy.

The best thing in the world to restore clear-headed energetic vitality and working power is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts directly upon the liver and digestive organs, giving them power to manufacture rich, healthy blood free from bilious poisons and morbid impurities.

It fills the blood with the red life-giving elements which nourish every organ and tissue. It replaces wasted tissue with healthy flesh and solid muscular strength. By feeding the brain and nerves with vital energy, it banishes neuralgia and nervous weakness and sleeplessness.

It is better than malt extracts or oily emulsions. It is not a mere temporary stimulant but a genuine and lasting nutriment, easily assimilated by the weakest stomachs.

Ralph Green, Esq., of Williamsburg, Callaway Co., Mo., writes: "Before I commenced your treatment I could not take a drink of water without great suffering in my stomach. I could not eat. I was fast sinking. I had five different doctors examine me, and each one treated me without doing me any good. At last I took four or five bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and to-day am in better health than I have been for five years. I weigh 157. Whenever I see any of my friends suffering I tell them of your medicine and advise them to write to you."

BREWER LOCALS.

Mr. L. A. Clark, of Portland, was in town Friday on business.

A pension has been granted to Mrs. Mary D. Carr, of Goodale's Corner.

Mr. F. H. Rogers, of this city, has returned home from a few days' business trip up river.

Mr. F. W. Gould is making quite an extensive addition to his large stable on Holyoke street.

Miss Grace C. Doe entertained a party of friends at her home on Wilson street Thursday evening.

Col. A. P. Buck, of Foxcroft, has been passing a few days with his son, Mr. E. B. Buck, in this city.

Miss Ellen H. Butler will talk to Sunday school workers Sunday evening at the Baptist church in this city.

The new residence of Mr. George Roberts on Parker street is well along towards completion and he contemplates moving in very shortly.

Several small vessels have been in the harbor this week with sand for the Hathorn Manufacturing Co. The sand is discharged at the company's storehouse on the wharf in the rear of the plant.

The crew shingling logs for F. W. Ayer at Dyer's cove have finished operations and some 8,000,000 feet have been shingled out. The logs will be sawed in the early spring before the arrival of a new lot from up river.

A call was issued by Mayor Merrill Friday afternoon for the members of the city council to be present at a special meeting to be held Monday morning at 8 o'clock, after which the board will proceed to the town of Holden to locate the dividing line between the two places.

At the concert and ball to be given by the Brewer band Monday, Nov. 8, the following well known artists will take part: Miller and Libby, banjo artists; Walter A. Gordon, tenor soloist, and W. B. Cochran, piano soloist. Dancing will follow the concert programme and Hall's full orchestra will furnish music.

There was a pleasant gathering of the Methodist parish at their vestry on Main street Thursday evening. Supper was served and a most enjoyable social hour passed. The constitution and by-laws for the Church Aid Society, in process of organization, were read by the secretary and quite a number of members pledged.

Contractor A. A. Kenney, of this city, has just completed a new barn for Mr. Henry Farrington on the river road. The building is 44x85 feet and was constructed at a cost of $1,150 in twenty-six days. It will be remembered that on the 9th of last September Mr. Farrington's old barn was destroyed by lightning.

People who have rollways entering their cellars would do well to see that they are securely fastened before retiring for the night, for preserve thieves are sneaking around. Since the Betley residence on Blake street in this city was separated from several jars of cooked fruit a short time ago, other complaints have been made. This would seem like the work of bad boys, especially if there was any raspberry jam in the case.

Since the recent burglar scares in this city the people are educating themselves to sleep with one eye open. Old muskets that have not seen service for years are being loaded to the muzzle and placed at the head of beds, revolvers lay in wait under pillows and wicked looking clubs of all dimensions are held in readiness for any emergency. So, Jack Burglar better look to the safety of his head while doing business in this town.

Josh Billings tells us in one of his books not to monkey with the business end of a bee, but evidently the respected Brewer citizen who picked up a bee Friday apparently dead had not seen this advice given by the famous humorist or else he had forgotten about it. Claiming to be authority on the bee, Mr. Citizen called some school children around him to enlighten them as to just where the stinger was situated. Having placed his finger on the dangerous parts he started to explain. Just then the bee came to life, resented the base exposure, turned over on his feet, jabbed its little sword into Mr. Citizen's hand, then flapped its wings and disappeared and Mr. Citizen was left to dance a double-shuffle while the tickled group of children filled the air with their merry screams and laughter.

Sunday Services.

First Baptist Church, corner Main and Parker streets, Rev. W. E. Lombard, pastor. Seats free. Sermon at 10.30 a. m.; Sunday school at 11.45 a. m.; evening service at 7 p. m. All welcome. Miss Ellen H. Butler will talk to Sunday school workers.

William Hatch, of Guilford, met with quite a serious accident recently. He had sold a pig and went to deliver it, having it in a bag. He got out of the carriage and took the sack in his hand to lay it on the ground when in some manner he slipped and throwing his hand out to save himself dislocated his arm at the elbow.

Piscataquis Observer: Oscar I. Taylor will have the position of superintendent of the sorting room in the woolen mills recently purchased in Worcester, Mass., by Messrs. J. B. and E. J. May and Thomas P. Curtis. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor's friends will be sorry to have them leave, but are glad to know that the change will be a good one for them.

Mr. George F. Wickson, of Sidney believes in hogs, and his two porkers, ready now to tip the scales in the market after being dressed at more than half a ton, bear solid testimony to his skill as a feeder.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Sempagha Pass Captured by British Troops Friday Morning.

The Warring Tribesmen Dislodged After Some Sharp Fighting.

Simla, Oct. 29.—The British forces under Gen. Sir Wm. Lockhart captured the Sempagha pass at 11.15 o'clock this morning. Gen. Gaselee, in command of the second brigade, led the advance upon the enemy's position, which was of the strongest description. The casualties among the British officers already reported are Capt. Debatts, of the artillery, who succumbed to the wounds received during the engagement, and Maj. Handford-Flood of the West Surrey regiment, who is among the wounded.

The British force will halt tonight in the Mustura valley and will attack Arhanga tomorrow.

A Liberal Victory.

London, Oct. 29.—The election held yesterday in the Barnsley division of the West Riding of Yorkshire, for a member of Parliament to succeed Earl Compton, who, upon the death of his father recently, succeeded to the latter's seat in the House of Lords, as Marquis of Northampton, has resulted in a Liberal victory. The polling was as follows: Mr. Joseph Walton (Liberal) 6,744; Mr. Jas. Blyth (Conservative) 3,454, Mr. Peter Curran (Independent Labor Party) 1,091.

Uproarious Scene in the Reichsrath

Vienna, Oct. 29.—Herr Lecker, at 6.30 this morning, was still delivering the speech which, after a battle of words with Herr Wolff, the German Liberal leader, and uproarious scenes in the Reichsrath he was able to resume at 10.50 last night. A little earlier this morning the social Democrats, supported by the Leftists, demanded an adjournment of the house, pointing out that the stenographers were overcome with fatigue. The suggestion, however, was greeted with another uproar.

The vice president acting president, Dr. Kramarcz, thereupon adjourned the house for 10 minutes after which Herr Lecker recommenced his speech amid Leftist interruptions and constant applause from his own party.

The Newmarket Races.

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 29.—Lorillard-Beresford stable Sandia ridden by "Tod" Sloane, won the old Cambridgeshire handicap here today. Later Meta II, also of the Lorillard-Beresford stables with Sloane won the Newmarket free handicap.

NATIONAL W. C. T. U.

Twenty-fourth Annual Convention Opened at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Miss Frances E. Willard, president of the World's and the National W. C. T. U., called the 24th convention of the organization to order in Music hall at 9.30 this morning. "Rock of Ages" was sung by the delegates standing.

Miss Willard stated that the crusade Bible was held up by the customs officials and for the first time she was unable to read the crusade psalm from it. "Such is the brotherly love between nations," she added. The psalm was then read responsively by Miss Willard and the delegates.

The executive committee reported its consideration of a plan of finance presented by Mrs. Marion B. Baxter, of Illinois, the feature of which was an appeal to local unions for two dollars each, 30 per cent. of the proceeds to go to the state department in which the collections were made, and to appoint assistant financial agents to work in states under permission from state officers. The report showed that the executive committee had held part of its sessions as a committee of the whole. The business of the committee of the whole was not presented and it was at this session that the Temple matter was discussed. The report of the executive committee was adopted.

Miss Willard then delivered her annual address.

A MAINE MAN.

Captain and Crew of Wrecked Vessel Landed.

New York, Oct. 29.—The Clyde line steamer New York arrived today from San Domingo, bringing as passengers Mate Johnson and five seamen of the American schooner, Marion Hill, which was lost on Sept. 30, within ten miles of Azua. Mr. Johnson said the schooner became becalmed and the currents carried her on the reefs where she soon pounded her bottom out. The crew saved their effects and landed in the schooner's boat. Most of the cargo was saved.

On Oct. 13, Capt. Armstrong died of lung trouble. His death was probably hastened by exposure and anxiety about his vessel. He was a native of Camden, Me. The Marion Hill was built at Boston in 1882, and was of 220 tons burden. She was bound to this port from San Domingo City, via Azua when lost.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

President McKinley Names Thursday, Nov. 25th.

Washington, Oct. 29.—President McKinley issued his first Thanksgiving Day proclamation as follows:

"In remembrance of God's goodness to us during the past year which has been so abundant, let us offer unto Him our thanksgiving and pay our vows unto the Most High. Under His watchful providence industry has prospered, the conditions of labor have been improved, the rewards of the husbandman have been increased and the comforts of our homes multiplied. His mighty hand has preserved peace and protected the nation. Respect for law and order has been strengthened, love for free institutions cherished and all sections of our beloved country brought into closer bonds of fraternal regard and generous co-operation.

"For these great benefits it is our duty to praise the Lord in a spirit of humility and gratitude and to offer up to Him our most earnest supplications. That we may acknowledge our obligations as a people to Him who has so graciously granted us the blessing of free government and material prosperity, I, William McKinley, President of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 25th day of November, for national thanksgiving and prayer which all of the people are invited to observe with appropriate religious services in their respective places of worship.

"On this day of rejoicing and domestic reunion let our prayers ascend to the Giver of every good and perfect gift for the continuance of His love and favor to us, that our hearts may be filled with charity and good will and that we may be ever worthy of His beneficent concern.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the city of Washington, this 29th day of October, in the year of Our Lord, one thousand, (Seal) eight hundred and ninety-seven, and of the Independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-second.

(Signed), "William McKinley."

"By the President:
"John Sherman, Secretary of State."

Frank Weeden Confesses to the Murder of his Cousin.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 29.—Frank Weeden, who is confined in the jail at Cranston, awaiting examination on the charge of shooting his cousin, Miss Daisy F. Coulters, of Brown university, with intent to kill, has made a confession.

The shooting took place shortly after 9 o'clock on Wednesday, the 20th inst., when a charge of bird-shot and lead slugs was fired through a window in the Coulters' house at Auburn and lodged in the young woman's breast.

In his confession, which he wrote in the cell, Weeden gives the details of the shooting and says that he deliberately planned to kill Miss Coulters because he was satisfied that she would not marry him and he did not propose that she should marry anyone else.

The confession was given to Chief Bigbee, of the Cranston police force, by the jail officers and is now in his possession.

WESTBROOK GRAVE ROBBERY.

"Crazy Joe" Rounds Confesses to the Crime.

Portland, Me., Oct. 29.—A Kennebunk special to the Express says that City Marshal Knight of Westbrook, arrested Joseph W. Rounds, a simple-minded youth in Kennebunk this morning, charged with having dug up the body of Mrs. John W. Roberts in Westbrook some weeks since. The city marshal's suspicions towards Rounds were aroused by the finding yesterday of the coffin plate taken from Mrs. Roberts' casket, under the doorstep of the house in which young Rounds' mother lived at the time the body snatching occurred.

"Crazy Joe," as the youth is called, made a complete confession to the marshal, and said that his motive was to get rid of the ghosts that troubled him and that told him if he would dig up a dead body they would not trouble him anymore.

Rounds will be brought to Portland and lodged in jail until tomorrow when he will probably be arraigned before Judge Tolman of the Westbrook municipal court.

ALL OVER THE STATE.

A queer specimen of marine architecture has been seen this week beside B. M. Pike's wharf at Lubec, discharging salt, an Italian bark, the Vesuvio, of Sorrento, Capt. Cacace. She is 530 tons royal tonnage, and somewhere in the vicinity of 800 in American. Instead of a wheel her steering apparatus was an old fashioned tiller, handled with blocks and tackle. Two poles were fixed over the tiller for the purpose of spreading an awning when in the tropics, or a tarpaulin in rainy weather. A strong netting extends the length of the jib-boom, firmly secured to the stays and answers a double purpose, in preventing the sails from dropping under the spar when being furled, and for the safety of the seamen while engaged in their perilous work. Everything from the cook's galley to the captain's cabin, was neat and trim and the crew were a fine looking lot of men and looked as though they were well fed. The wages paid the crew we were told was ten dollars per month, and the captain thirty. The bark will be towed to Calais and load with lemon and orange shooks for Italy.

Tuesday afternoon when steamer Vinalhaven was returning to the islands from Rockland, the crew and passengers on the boat became greatly alarmed by the smell of smoke. The crew immediately began looking about and at the side of the boiler room among the freight a case of red fire had been stored, which in some unknown way exploded, causing a great smoke. The boxes and side of the steamer immediately caught fire. After a few minutes of hard fighting the blaze was extinguished and the passengers quieted down.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. George King, who lives on Foss street, Biddeford, was sitting in her kitchen with her child, 26 months old, when the little one got up and went into the next room. He had been in there some little time when Mrs. King went to see what was the matter. The sight made her blood run cold. The little fellow stood with his father's razor in his hand and was bringing the sharp edge of the blade down over his throat, imitating his father in shaving. Mrs. King spoke to him and he laid the sharp weapon down and the mother grabbed it and put it out of the way. An investigation of the child's face revealed only one little scratch near the ear.

Chas. C. Colby, a ship fastener, while at work on the schooner at Percy & Small's yard at Bath had a terrible fall late Wednesday afternoon. He was standing on one of the upper deck beams talking with one of the men and it is supposed that in stepping from one beam to another he stepped short and fell head first into the hold, landing on a staging. The distance was fourteen feet. He was unconscious when the workmen arrived where he lay. His condition is critical but there are hopes for his recovery.

Next Sunday George H. Stevens, of Portland, will ride 100 miles, five times over a 20-mile course through Portland, Dunstan and Saco, to make a record for the new chainless Columbia wheel. He will have six pace makers.

If one must lose money Waterford is a good place for the purpose. Early last summer a visitor lost a wallet containing between $30 and $40. Last week it was found by a resident on the shore of the lake, and was returned in good condition to the owner.

Dr. W. Johnson, the diphtheria expert, was present at a meeting of Mayor Judkins and the Lewiston board of health Thursday night. He related his successful experience with anti-toxine, having lost only two cases out of 75 treated. The board of health voted to take vigorous methods for its suppression. Thirty-four cases are reported. With the aid of anti-toxine no doubt the mortality will be decreased.

The excelsior mill at Abbott started up last Friday noon with a full crew.

Another accident occurred at Potter & Watson's shank factory at North Anson, Tuesday morning. Miss Ruby Sprague was running a machine which rolls the shanks into shape, when her left hand caught in the rolls. The middle finger was crushed and burst open at the end. Amputation was not deemed necessary.

Henry Harrigan, of Littleton, met with a painful accident and narrow escape from death Monday afternoon while at work clearing land. He had put a chain around a log and it is thought he attempted to shorten the chain when the horses started, knocking him down and dragging the log upon him. When found he was unconscious and had a severe wound under one eye and was severely bruised about the body.

In the United States district court at Portland before Judge Webb Thursday morning Baptiste Soucie, of Caribou, was arraigned on charge of having engaged in the retailing of liquor without paying the proper United States tax. The prisoner being unable to speak English Thomas L. Talbot, Esq., qualified as interpreter. When the complaint was read to Soucie he denied that he had violated the law, claiming that he had paid the tax through another party. He did not have the tax receipts but the tax of $20 was paid in the name of his wife, Mary Soucie. The payment was made in the month of March. Mr. Bird said there was no way whereby a payment of $20 in March, could have been made, since the methods of doing business in the internal revenue department would call for a sum different from this. Soucie explained that the value for the tax went through the hands of George Powers, who has acted as interpreter to the court and has boarded at his house. Soucie showed a paper with tally marks on it as proof of his dealings with Powers. The judge ordered Soucie to recognize in the sum of $100 for the district court in December. Soucie was committed.

The last vestige of the staging on the front of the new Y. M. C. A. building at Portland was removed Thursday and for the first time the massive beauty of the structure was revealed in all its simplicity. Nearly every passer by stopped for a moment to study the building and many were the words of praise heard.

One day last week as Orrille Andrews, of East Exeter, was riding home from school on his pony, the saddle slipped and he was thrown off. The pony came home riderless and he was found by his mother lying senseless. He soon recovered and happily sustained no injuries.

There was an accident in Lewiston Thursday afternoon. A lady and gentleman were coming at a lively pace around the corner of Pine and Lisbon streets, when one end of the axle broke short off, letting the occupants roll into the street.

The people on the main streets of Auburn were treated Thursday to what was, in some respects, an extraordinary scene. A colored lad, 16 years of age, was placed in the police station but by an actual count it took fourteen able bodied men to do the trick. The lad's name is Charles W. Tillman and he hails from San Francisco. He was arrested on the charge of breaking and entering and larceny. Tillman is a good looking colored lad and will weigh about 150 pounds. He gave his age as 16 but after the struggle most of the officers and their assistants were inclined to believe him older.

The State Convention Y. M. C. A. will be held in Lewiston on Nov. 19, 20 and 21. A fine array of speakers has been secured, including Mr. H. M. Moore, of Boston, General Secretary L. Wilbur Messer, of Chicago, and International Secretaries W. B. Millar and H. O. Williams, of New York.

CITY AND VICINITY.

When R. F. Libby, of Newport, found last spring that 30 of his best plum trees and nearly all of his blackberry canes were winter killed he tried to make up his loss in some other way. The first thing he did was to enlarge his onion bed. On 42 rods he has raised 175 bushels, for which he has a ready sale at $1 a bushel.

A shipment of sardines was made by W. A. Shea, of Eastport, on Monday, to San Francisco, to be reshipped to the Klondike region on the reopening of transportation. This is probably the first shipment of goods that has been made from the eastern extreme of Uncle Sam's domain to the far northwest, and it is to be hoped that the hardy miners will not suffer from this acquisition to their larder.

Ellsworth American: When Capt. Burdick Berry, of Bucksport, was so terribly injured on the river this fall, people remarked that never did a man have harder luck than he. But now another blow has fallen. His vessel, the two masted schooner Ludowick Bill, has been wrecked off Cape Cod, as reported, and is a total loss. The crew were all saved. There was not a cent of insurance on her.

What may be termed "a successful New England farmer" has just been in Dexter on a visit to his brother, Samuel Copeland, Esq. This was Ira Copeland, of Enfield, one of Dexter's pioneers. He was the youngest of a large family and left Dexter 50 years ago. He worked in Abbott's mill, Dexter, when a boy and after leaving Maine worked in a mill in Manchester, N. H., but practically his whole life has been spent upon a farm. He has also acquired a large property and is widely known in his adopted State as a man who can make a farm pay and pay well. He not long ago offered the town of Enfield, N. H., $10,000 as a fund for the erection of a high-school building.

TO MOTHERS OF LARGE FAMILIES.

Mrs. Pinkham's Advice Free.

In this workaday world few women are so placed that physical exertion is not constantly demanded of them in their daily life.

Mrs. Pinkham makes a special appeal to mothers of large families whose work is never done, and many of whom suffer and suffer for lack of intelligent aid.

To women, young or old, rich or poor, Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., extends her invitation of free advice. Oh, women! do not let your lives be sacrificed when a word from Mrs. Pinkham, at the first approach of weakness, may fill your future years with healthy joy.

Mrs. A. C. Buhmen, 1123 North Albany avenue, near Humboldt Park, Chicago, Ill., says: "I am fifty-one years old and have had twelve children, and my youngest is eight years old. I have been suffering for some time with a terrible weakness; that bearing-down feeling was dreadful, and I could not walk any distance. I began the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash and they have cured me. I cannot praise your medicine enough."

A Happy Husband's Story.

"My wife," writes a fond husband, "looks ten years younger since she began to take Dr. Greene's Nervura. She was in a terrible condition. She began to be nervous several years ago. I did not notice it at first, but she gradually grew worse. After a little she could not sleep. She lost her appetite. Then she became irritable and morose, and from the sweetest and best tempered woman in the world she became shrewish and hysterical. Finally she began to fade away. You know there is a difference between women who grow old naturally and women who fade out from the effects of disease. I think I am as devoted and patient as any husband, but I must confess that my wife's unfortunate condition was a sore trial. I do not know what would have become of us if things had gone on as they were. The change for the better came suddenly. There was a complete transformation within a few days. Sound sleep and a hearty appetite came as nervousness and irritability went. I did not know what the matter was until she told me that she had been impressed by the sincerity and common sense of Dr. Greene's advertisements, and had been taking his Nervura. From misery and despondency she is now the happiest person in the world, with the possible exception of myself."

Dr. Greene's
Nervura,

THE GREAT BLOOD AND NERVE REMEDY,

Is the great health restorer. To suffering womankind it is a priceless blessing. How sad is the sight of a fading woman! Who has not seen the sparkling eyes lose their lustre, the roses and lilies fade from the cheeks, and elasticity of step and gracefulness of figure give way to repulsive haggishness! With departing beauty go sweetness of temper and charm of speech, and nothing is left of the sufferer but the ghastly contrast with her former self. The world would be gloomy indeed were there no light in this dark picture. Nature is forgiving. In Dr. Greene's Nervura she has founded a means by which women may regain their lost health and beauty, and assume their rightful positions in the spheres in which they move, as both ornaments and inspirations.

Dr. Greene's Nervura acts directly upon the nerves and blood, which are the life. Exhaustion, irritability and moroseness are banished, and the circulation is strengthened and purified like a mountain stream. Dr. Greene is most happy when relieving the miseries of others, and if you feel the need of a wise counselor, do not hesitate to call on or write to him. His advice is none the less valuable because it is free. Dr. Greene's office is at 34 Temple Place, Boston, Mass.

Calais Times: While patrolling his beat in the darkness a policeman mistook a skunk for a poor stray pussy cat and picked it up. Then his official hardness of heart asserted itself and got the best of his sympathetic nature and he threw it down again.

About fifty persons, old and young, had a pleasant time recently at the home of E. T. Chase, of Summit, and helped him husk about one hundred bushels of corn, which is considered a fine crop from one acre this year.

A novel and interesting feature is promised for the annual gymnastic exhibition of the Thornton academy students this winter. A basket-ball game between two teams composed of girls will be played. It is believed that this sport, which has become so popular in girls' colleges, will become a permanent institution, taking the place to a large extent of the routine exercises in the gymnasium.

For some time E. M. Jones, of Hartland, has been missing money from the cash drawer in his office in the grist mill. But up to Saturday night who took it had been a mystery to him. Saturday night the secret came to light. The night watch at the woolen mill saw a boy trying to get out of the grist mill window. Upon investigation it proved to be Fred Fuller, a boy of some eight or ten summers. It appears that in the past the boy has been in the habit of going into the mill shortly before Mr. Jones locked up nights, secreting himself among the bags of grain, remaining until all was quiet, then relieving the money drawer of its contents, disappear through the window into darkness and the next day enjoy the fruit of his evening's work.

Mrs. Grace Savage, of Egypt, gathered near her house recently three kinds of June flowers—field daisies, buttercups and strawberry blossoms.

Hancock county liquor dealers paid $5,038.60 into the county treasury at the last term of court.

An East Lamoine pig one morning recently showed unmistakable evidences of a night encounter with some wild animal. Opinion is divided as to what manner of an animal it was, but many believe it to have been a bear. Bruin's well known partiality for pork has brought upon him the odium of the crime.

A young man by the name of McLaughlin, Kossuth, was handed over to Danforth officers Tuesday, on the charge of stealing a ride. He was brought before Trial Justice Carlton, and pleading guilty was sent to Machias to await the January term of court.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Mr. Elbert Hubbard, of East Aurora, New York, will lecture in the Universalist church in this city, Tuesday evening, Nov. 9, on the subject: "Elizabeth Barrett Browning."

On Friday the men at work at the pumping station unearthed in the river bank a cannon ball weighing about seven pounds, which is probably one of the old British missiles used in firing on Bangor.

Mr. W. L. Rogers, the well known lumberman of Greenville, was in the city Friday. He will cut about 3,000,000 the coming winter, and will employ about 75 men and will have three crews, two of which are already at work.

Miss Mary Snow, superintendent of schools, has been secured by the committee on education, of the Portland Y. M. C. A., to speak on education work Monday, November 8. A fine musical programme has also been arranged for that night.

The boys at the Y. M. C. A. will hold their regular weekly gospel service Sunday at 2.30. Mr. George E. Lake will speak and Miss Grace Buzzell will sing. The hour has been changed from 3 to 2.30 to accommodate those wishing to attend the junior services in the churches.

An old fashioned singing school will be taught every Saturday evening at the Grace M. E. church by Mr. L. C. Vannah, of Waldoboro. The first lesson will be given this evening at 7.30 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to everybody to attend and only a very small fee will be charged.

On November 12th, the members of the senior class of the Bangor High school will give a dance at City Hall, and Pullen's orchestra has been engaged to furnish music for the event. The committee of arrangements consists of Miss Nora Fairbanks, Miss Mitchell, Miss Knowles and Messrs. Hal Hunt and George Sargent.

The attraction for men tomorrow afternoon will be the solo singing of Mrs. Nelson, who sang so charmingly at the Festival, at the meeting for men at four o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. building. All men are invited to these attractive services. Mr. Blake, of the Blake Lock Co., of Worcester, Mass., who was in the city on Friday, is an auto harp soloist and may be heard Sunday at the men's meeting.

There is a goodly number of names on the list at Andrews' and it is hoped by the first of the week many more will be added so that the public may be sure of the symphony concerts for this season. If those who think they will go most of the time but don't wish to sign for the season would only determine to take the course tickets they would help the undertaking and insure themselves a better choice of seats.

The Nineteenth Century Club had its first meeting of the autumn yesterday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. J. E. Thompson, on Leighton street. It was voted to devote the meetings to a study of Maine. The report of delegates to the Federation meetings was made by Miss Libby. Papers and pamphlets sent out by Supt. Stetson were read by Miss Pendleton, Mrs. Rogers, Miss Goodale and Miss Curtis, followed by a very interesting talk by Mrs. H. K. White. Miss Wyer presented a new magazine, The Club Woman. Two new members were voted in and a delightful tea ended the meeting.

Conductor Ayer and Engineer Everett Moore, of the Maine Central, and Cyrus Emery, of Glenburn, have just returned from a hunting trip in Aroostook, and while there they stopped at the house of H. L. Morgan, of Golden Ridge. Their quest for game was unsuccessful and they were venting their disappointment at Mr. Morgan's when he told them not to worry for he would send them down a deer. On Friday they received a barrel whose every appearance to them meant deer meat, and lots of it. With visions of juicy venison before them they opened the barrel and found—a big squash weighing 100 pounds. It was a "dear" of its kind all right. The squash hunters will place the huge vegetable on exhibition in some prominent place.

Municipal Court.

In the Municipal Court on Friday Fred Washburn and James Keefe were tried on the charge of truancy and sentenced to the reform school during the remainder of their minority. Truant Officer John Goldthwait took them in charge and left this city on the afternoon train for Cape Elizabeth.

Samuel W. Woodbury, of Brewer, for doing a plumbing business without a license was fined $10 and costs which he paid.

Thomas Russell, for assault upon Frank A. Tarr, was sentenced to pay the costs.

Patrick Fury, for defrauding restaurant keeper C. E. Adams, was sentenced to two months in jail.

Nervous people find relief by enriching their blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla, which is the one true blood purifier and nerve tonic. 85

FARMERS' INSTITUTE.

Successful Event at Hampden on Friday.

On Friday a farmers' institute was held in Hampden, at Town Hall, and it was an occasion of entire success. It continued forenoon, afternoon and evening with a large attendance, some being present from places at considerable distances from Hampden.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. George N. Holland, member of the State Board of Agriculture for Penobscot county.

Mr. T. B. Terry, of Ohio, the well known agricultural editor and lecturer, was the principal speaker both afternoon and evening. In the forenoon his lecture was on "Comfort and Convenience in the Home," illustrated by large wall plans of an ill-arranged and a well-arranged house, which were explained by the lecturer. Mr. Terry believes in having the rooms so arranged that all can be thrown together, and that as few steps as possible can be taken in doing the housework. He enforced the importance of good ventilation, pure air, neat surroundings and abundance of sunlight. After the lecture remarks were made by Mrs. H. E. Prentiss, of Bangor; Mr. Allen Carter, of Hampden; Mr. Dyer and others, all being heard with pleasure and interest.

At noon a bounteous dinner was served in Grange hall, which was provided by the following named ladies, acting as a committee of the grange: Mrs. Geo. N. Holland, Mrs. H. L. Page, Mrs. Maggie Page, Mrs. Mary A. Jackson, Miss Sarah Wargatt, Mr. Jeanette Flagg, Mrs. Oliver Littlefield, Miss Carrie Roberts, Mrs. Darius Nason, Miss Gertrude Newcomb, Miss Isabel Henry and Mrs. Celia Emery.

In the afternoon Mr. Terry's lecture was on "A Small Fruit Garden." It was illustrated by means of diagrams, showing rotation of small fruits—a matter to which but little attention is paid—and all the manner of mulching and pruning. The lecture was most instructive and interesting.

In the evening Secretary B. Walker McKeen, of the Maine Board of Agriculture, gave a lecture on "Increasing Farm Resources." It was a very profitable and able effort and was given most appreciative attention.

University of Maine Notes.

At the recent meeting of the Association of American Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations at Minneapolis, a committee was appointed to take charge of the work of preparing a collective exhibit for the Paris Exposition in 1900. Among its members are Pres. A. W. Harris, of U. of M., and Prof. W. H. Jordan, of Geneva, N. Y., formerly Director of the Maine Experiment Station.

The following members of the Sophomore class have been chosen to participate in the Prentiss prize declamations at the Town Hall, Orono, about December 2d: Roy H. Brown, Montague City, Mass; Walter N. Cargill, Liberty; Frank McDonald, Portland; Fred C. Mitchell, West Newfield; Charles O. Porter, Cumberland Mills; Dana L. Thoriault, Caribou; Charles A. Robbins, Patten.

The Mathematical and Physical Section of the Scientific Society held an interesting meeting on Thursday evening, October 28. Excellent papers were read by Mr. Barstow and Mr. Andrews.

Infantry drill has been suspended for the remainder of the fall term. The cadets are now taking target practice. Preliminary scores are shot first and after that record scores. Those who make 80 per cent. of the possible 200 in the record scores are awarded sharpshooters' buttons. Those who make 60 per cent. are awarded marksmen's buttons. After the target practice is completed military recitations will take its place. The senior commissioned officers will take up Art of War, the juniors will take Drill Regulations and the sophomores Manual of Guard Duty. The freshmen take mathematical drawing in place of military recitation.

Death of Capt. Arthur Armstrong.

A telegram received in this city on Friday announced the death of Captain Arthur Armstrong, of Hampden, master of the schooner Marion Hill, which was wrecked on the Island of San Domingo about October 1. Capt. Armstrong died at Azua on October 13. The members of the crew of the schooner arrived in New York by steamer on Friday and the telegram announcing his death was immediately sent to Bangor.

Capt. Armstrong was a young man about 23 years of age but he was an experienced and very able mariner. He was much respected and liked by all who knew him and his death will be greatly regretted by a large number of friends. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss and she will have much sympathy.

AMUSEMENTS.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.

This afternoon and evening Stetson's company will give "Uncle Tom's Cabin" at the Opera House. The company is said to be a very competent one and large audiences will doubtless attend. The drawing qualities of this play are such as never fail and so year after year "Uncle Tom" holds the boards.

Every Night Next Week.

The annual visit of the Bennett-Moulton Comedy Company has become an event in the amusement line in this city. As thousands have attended their performances in the past and know the reputation of the company for keeping up the standard of excellence for which this company is noted, they know what to expect next week.

GREAT GAME.

Kent's Hill and Bangor High School Will Meet This Afternoon.

At Maplewood Park this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock will be played a foot ball game which is one of the most important ever participated in by Bangor High School and the interest which it has awakened will probably attract a big crowd to the park.

It will be the first game ever played between Kent's Hill seminary and B. H. S. Kent's Hill for several years has had a very strong team, but Bangor has never happened to meet them before. The seminary men are somewhat older than the Bangor boys and will present a heavier line, but B. H. S. hopes to offset this advantage by snappy work. The visitors have not been beaten this year, and they recently beat Hebron 13 to 6.

Whoever wins, and it is thought that B. H. S. stands an even chance, it is sure to be a game well worth witnessing and, as it is quite expensive getting the Kent's Hill team here, it is hoped that the attendance will be large.

The Kent's Hill team arrived on Friday on the 6.20 p. m. train and the members are at the Bangor Exchange. The following compose the team: Farwell, Vickery, Marston, Rionda, Woodman, Berry, Mederos, Roberts, Mattocks, Perry, Supprelle, Randall, Alden, Sawyer, Smith, Eastman.

There will be two changes on the B. H. S. team since the last game. Burrill, guard, has a lame knee and John Conners will play his position. Glyren will take Fitzgerald's place at end.

The game will be started at 2.30 so that the visitors can leave on the 4.30 train.

Manager Bridges received a telegram on Friday from the manager of the Thornton team, asking when Bangor would play them. Manager Bridges expects to be able to give Thornton a date soon.

The officials for the first game to be played by the Bangor High school and the Portland High school foot ball elevens on November 6 in Portland have been agreed upon by Managers Bridges and Hannaford. Mr. Edward Stanwood, of Bowdoin College, will act as referee and Mr. T. T. Murphy, of Lewiston, will be the umpire. They officiated in the same capacity last year both at Bangor and Portland and gave entire satisfaction. The Bangor boys will be quartered at the Preble House in Portland and when the Portland boys come to this city they will stop at the Bangor House.

Tufts has accepted the terms of Manager Webster, of the University of Maine, for a game in Bangor next Wednesday and much interest will be taken in the contest. Tufts has a strong team this year and will play a much better game against U. of M. than Tech did. Indeed U. of M. will be very fortunate if she wins at all.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Bowdoin will play at Brunswick today. Next Wednesday Colby and Bowdoin will play their first game at Waterville and it will be a warm contest, as are all the games between these old rivals. Each team will strive to put its best men into the game that day in the best possible condition. On November 13th Colby will play at Brunswick. University of Maine will play Bowdoin at Brunswick on November 20th.

Game on Friday.

The game shipment on Friday was not large. The record of 1012 deer for the month of October, '96, has been broken this year in the same month and the season's record will probably be eclipsed.

On Friday S. Boothby, of Portland, brought a deer from Houlton, H. H. Ashley, of Plymouth, Penn., had one from St. Croix and J. C. Spies, of Worcester, brought two from Ashland. Edward Thayer and Edward Thayer, Jr., of Pawtucket, R. I., came down from Patten with four deer. C. M. Knowlton, of Beverly, Mass., had a deer from Patten. Joseph Sheldon, of Haverhill, had two from Grindstone, and Nelson Read Hall, F. E. Healy and W. H. Parker, of Pawtucket, brought down three from Norcross. A bear weighing 25 pounds was shipped from Norcross to W. Hart, of New York.

W. B. Bickford, of Bangor, brought down two deer from Katahdin Iron Works, John M. Rich, of Brooklyn, had one from Norcross, and J. E. Redman and F. H. Lowe, of Fitchburg, Mass., and J. B. Hyland, of Keene, N. H., each brought down two from Schoodic.

Landlord Fred G. Moon, of the Penobscot Exchange, Harry W. Lash, H. E. Wood, I. N. Goldsmith, of Boston, and others, have returned from a hunting trip in the region around Norcross. They each brought home two deer.

Game Warden Walter I. Neal returned Friday from Green lake where he went to investigate the reported dogging of deer. Warden Neal did not secure the parties, but he is positive that the men who were violating the law were from Ellsworth. Mr. Neal could get no information from the parties who knew that deer were being dogged at the lake, to give him any clue to the guilty ones.

Game Warden Hodgkins came down from Lincoln Friday noon and yesterday afternoon met Game Commissioner Carleton in this city. They left for Norcross on business.

THE TEMPERATURE

Atmospheric Conditions as Shown by Methodical Observations.

The following table gives the weather conditions as shown by the thermometer and barometer at Miller's pharmacy:

MADOCKAWANDO CLUB.

Enjoyable Reception Upon the Occasion of the Opening of the New Club Rooms.

The new and elegant quarters of the Madockawando Club on Main street were thrown open to the public on Friday, by invitation, between the hours of 2 and 10 p. m. and during that time about 1,000 people, many ladies being among the number, visited the handsome rooms. By far the larger number went to the rooms in the evening but about three hundred were present in the afternoon.

The new rooms have previously been described in THE WHIG. The entire enlarged block, above the first floor, is devoted to the uses of the club and all the various rooms are splendidly arranged and elegantly and most comfortably furnished. They are among the best club rooms in Maine and the members are to be congratulated upon having such fine quarters.

The decorations of palms, evergreen, plants and flowers were by Beers, who used his excellent taste and his extensive and choice floral growths to the utmost advantage. The handsome apartments had an additional beauty through the effect of the charming arrangement of flowers and green growths.

During the afternoon the guests were pleasantly entertained by the selections on the piano so skillfully rendered by Mr. Wilbur E. Cochrane. The members of the club expected to have their new piano for use upon this occasion, it having been shipped a week ago, but for some reason it did not come in time for the reception.

In the evening the club rooms were filled with visitors. The members of the committee who so successfully arranged the details of the reception were Mr. F. P. Norton, chairman; Mr. W. M. Brown and Mr. W. L. Bragg. They with President Edwin Lord and numerous other members escorted the guests through the rooms so handsomely and tastefully furnished and all expressed the greatest admiration for what was unfolded to their gaze.

The elegant parlor, the fine billiard room, the cosy reading room, the attractive private dining room, the hospitable looking banquet hall, the neat kitchen, etc., etc., all came in for their share of admiring interest and it was the unanimous opinion freely expressed that the Madockawando have fine quarters.

During the evening eight pieces of Pullen's orchestra, directed by Mr. Pullen, rendered a choice programme of music which was a much appreciated pleasure.

In the banquet room on the upper floor delicious refreshments were served, efficient waitresses attending to the wants of the guests.

BRIG TOTALLY WRECKED.

Captain and First Officer Lost—Vessel Built in Maine.

Boston, Oct. 29. The intelligence of the loss of the Boston brig Stacy Clark, and the drowning of Capt. Isaac Benson, and First Officer Saunders, was a shock to the owners of the vessel in this city and to the families of the men who were lost. She was bound from Newport News to Charleston, with a cargo of 600 tons of coal. She left Hampton Roads on the 21st and was caught in the terrible hurricane which completely wrecked the vessel. The men took to boats which capsized as they were being rescued by the schooner John Twohy, resulting in the drowning of the captain and mate.

Capt. Benson was a well known shipmaster in this city, having formerly commanded the barkentine Henry Warner and other vessels. He was about 59 years old and resided at Waltham, Mass., where a widow and two grown up daughters survive him. Mate Saunders resided in Everett, where he leaves a wife.

The Stacy Clark was owned by Peter Starkey, of this city, who places the valuation at $8,000. She was uninsured. The lost vessel registered 374 tons, was built at Waldoboro, Me., in 1879 and hailed from this port. Her cargo of coal was valued at about $1,200 and was fully insured.

Who Wrote "God Save the Queen?"

It is not every national anthem that knows its own composer. There are many conflicting stories as to the writer of the music of "God Save the Queen," for instance: It is said to have been first publicly performed in 1740 at a dinner given to celebrate the taking of Porto Bello by Admiral Vernon. It was then sung by Henry Carey, who claimed both words and music. It appears, however, that there was a tune suspiciously like it in a book dated 1619, and attributed to one Jan Bull. Hence, patriotic Britain is now personified as John Bull. In all probability Henry Carey helped himself to Bull's tune, changing it from the minor to the major mode, and proceeded to popularize it by singing it himself. It is well known that Haydn wrote the Austrian hymn, and that Emperor William tried to supplant "Die Wacht am Rhein" with his own "Song to Aegir." But no one knows who wrote the majority of national anthems."

STATE HOUSE.

Numerous Bids and Designs Received for Proposed Changes in Senate Chamber.

Councillors Spofford and Marshall arrived at the State House Thursday morning, and with Superintendent of Public Buildings E. C. Stevens, they were closeted all day in the senate chamber, receiving the designs for the proposed decoration of the chamber, says the Kennebec Journal.

A large number of beautiful and serviceable looking designs were presented by artists whose reputations are of the best.

One thing that makes the work of choosing the designs difficult is that there is no competition in the price to be paid for the decoration $1500 having been set as the amount.

Among the different firms who presented designs were Major John W. Berry, of Gardiner, C. Beale & Co., of Augusta, L. Haberstroh & Son, H. C. Aiken & Co., Strauss Bros., and Theodore B. Madrokowski, of Boston, presented a design in steel.

Six cathedral glass windows are to be added at a cost of $100 each, designs being presented by Spencer, Moakler & Bell, Horace F. Phipps & Co., Redding, Beard & Co., and Flagg, Warnock & Co., all of Boston.

No decision was arrived at by the committee.

J. L. Hamilton, of Searsport, was assisting in placing a building on its foundations, when the handle of a jackscrew with which he was working slipped out and the end struck him in the left eye, destroying the sight.

The stable owned by James Sprague and formerly known as the old stage stable at Frankfort, was burned recently, together with its contents consisting of six tons of hay, horse, cow, farming implements, organ, and a well-chosen library of 60 volumes; uninsured. Cause unknown.

Thomaston's market gardener, T. S. Vose, is briskly engaged converting cabbages into sauer kraut. He intends to pack 30 tierces. He has rigged up a cutter which is driven by a double wheeled gear hand power with which he has cut up 265 pounds of cabbage in seven and one-half minutes. At that rate of ten barrels a day could easily be put down.

While ploughing one day last week, Wallace and Eddie Homer, of Monson, unearthed a nest of snakes to the number of eighty-six. They measured from three to eighteen inches in length.
